

ALEXANDRIA, VA.
MONDAY EVENING, OCT. 3

"WOMEN today do not seem to appreciate that the greatest power in the world is in their hands. They are custodians of the future, the wardens of the human race. Has the being to whom has been confided the greatest human mission the time to waste in buying dresses for lap dogs, or wearing those big, extravagant hats, and those strange, fashionable gowns?" It was Cardinal Logue, the primate of Ireland, who in New York a few days ago made this interesting observation on the tendencies of modern womanhood. "I don't like to see women lawyers," he continued. "They get such rough handling in the law courts. That is why I do not care for women in politics. It is not the woman who is unfit for politics; it is the politics that is unfit for the woman. The grandest profession in the world for women is caring for a home and children. I have not noted," he continued, "in the conversations of such Americans as I have met an undue reverence for the dollar. But there is the rush everywhere; the frightful tension that tells of the dollar hunt. I do not say that you care for money more than any other nation; but you work harder for it. You expect to get rich, or go bankrupt in a night. You are not willing to plod." Cardinal Logue is a keen observer of human events and it did not take him long to catch on to American habits and customs.

HISTORY has a habit of repeating itself. The situation of the republican party of New York is much like that which arose in the conflict between the "stalwarts" and the "half-breeds" a quarter of a century ago. This division between the two factions split the party wide open, and resulted in the election of Grover Cleveland. To appreciate the conditions, says the Philadelphia Record, it is necessary only to substitute the reactionaries of today for the stalwarts, and the insurgents or pretended progressives for the half-breeds. Another division was between the federal and state officeholders. Judge Charles J. Folger, secretary of the treasury in President Arthur's administration, was nominated for governor in 1887 and Cleveland was elected over him by a plurality of 192,000 votes.

THREE fatal and many serious accidents marred the success of the annual automobile competition in New York Saturday for the Vanderbilt cup. That is too high a price to pay for an exhibition whose chief purpose is to minister to the speed mania. The prize in the race has been won, but that fact will not recall the lives which were lost in the mad contest nor console the bereft survivors of those who were butchered to make a speed mania's holiday. When informed of the race and the fatal accidents resulting therefrom, acting Mayor Mitchell very sensibly said:

I believe that the Vanderbilt cup race should be regulated. Under the present conditions it is a menace. These races should be restricted, because the danger involved is too great. I do not mean that all automobile races should be stopped, but when the question of inadequate protection arises and when the lives of contestants are endangered, something should be done.

The republican convention at Concord, N. H., last week gave an exhibition of harmony rare to see in the construction of a party platform. A drag net was spread as a catch all. It indorses the Taft administration for having carried out the policies of Roosevelt, demands effective conservation, the passage of the national forest reserve bill, commends the recent changes in the house rules, wants tariff revision corrupt practices legislation, the parcels post, a public utilities commission, labor liability laws, and demands that the corporations get out and stay out of politics.

On the first day of October a ban was placed on the public drinking cup in Massachusetts. A new law establishes a fine of $25 for any person or corporation that provides "a common drinking cup in any public park, street or way; in any building or premises used as a public institution, hotel, theatre, public hall or public school, or in any railroad station, railroad car, steam or ferry boat. This will be another excuse for men taking to the bottle.

A MAN in Washington, on Saturday night shot and killed his wife because she asked him for money. Now this should be a warning to wives; husbands cannot stand everything!

President Taft returned to his summer home at Beverly Mass., last night after an absence of two weeks.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Correspondence of Alexandria Gazette.

Associate Justices Harlan, Lurton, and McKenna have arrived in Washington, being the advanced guard of the Supreme Court of the United States, which will convene next Monday for the opening session of the October term of the Supreme Court.

Harlan, as senior associate justice, is supervising the preparation for the term. Governor Hughes will take the oath of office on the opening day.

The coming term will be one of the most important for many decades. Decisions will be handed down in the suits to dissolve the Standard Oil Co., and the tobacco trust; to establish the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of the corporation tax law, and in the Buck Stove and Range case in which the fate of Samuel Gompers and other labor leaders is involved. More than 700 cases are on the docket.

The Interstate Commerce Commission announced this afternoon that a hearing will be given here on October 12 to the following three railroad presidents: Brown of the Pennsylvania and Willard of the Baltimore & Ohio.

The census bureau this afternoon announced the people of Delaware to be 202,322 an increase of 17,587 or 9.5 per cent.

That railroad revenues are increasing more rapidly than expenses was indicated in a statement issued yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission showing the following figures for June of this year: Operating revenues $297,036,158; an increase over June of last year of $27,700,000. Operating expenses $160,227,644, an increase over June of last year of $25,800,000.

Captain John G. Muir was appointed today cashier at the Philadelphia Sub-Treasury with a salary of $2,500. As a retired officer of the Marine Corps he also receives $1,980 a year.

Placing the full responsibility for present social evils that result from a double standard of morality upon the women themselves, the male sociologists at the American Prison Congress in convention here today opposed the statement of Dr. Katherine Davis, who in an interview declared that she favored open and recognized polygamy.

"Let them demand of men the same standard which men demand of women. I am frank in agreeing with Miss Davis that polygamy would be better than present conditions, but with women lies the power to change these conditions. Let them demand of men a perfect moral code and there is no reason why they should not get it."

Thomas J. Hillierly, white, a foreman and Wm. C. Crosby, a laborer, colored, got into a fight at 13th and Girard streets this morning. Both were taken to pieces. They were taken to the Marine Hospital. It is said they will die.

Changes in the officers of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets were announced by the Navy Department this afternoon as follows: Rear Admiral Conolly, commanding the third division of the Atlantic fleet, is ordered to Philadelphia. Captain T. V. Howard leaves the general board in this city to succeed Comdr. Rear Admiral E. B. Barry commanding the second division of the Pacific fleet, is made Commander-in-Chief of the fleet succeeding Rear Admiral Harber. Chancey Thomas, now President of the Board of Inspection succeeds Barry as Commander of the second division.

An "all-Ireland" protest was made to Postmaster General Hitchcock today by a committee headed by the Lord Mayor of Dublin, against the action of the Cunard Steamship Company in abandoning Queenstown as a port of call. Hitchcock said that under the existing mail contracts he could do nothing officially, but would gladly use any personal influence he might have with the steamship company officials.

This afternoon the jury investigating the death of Norval T. Harris rendered a verdict declaring that Harris met his death "by an intentionally self-inflicted pistol wound."

Two indictments were returned today by the grand jury against Griffin Halstead, a former stockbroker, charged with embezzlement, larceny, and obtaining securities under false pretenses.

Declaring his activities, as head of the anti-vaccination society, in the legal battle which is being waged in this city against the compulsory vaccination law to be in conflict with his services as an instructor of Howard University, President Wilbur Thirkield of that institution today announced that he had resigned from the anti-vaccination society of the District of Columbia and was largely responsible for the fight which was commenced here at the beginning of the school year against the compulsory vaccination law. Howard University is one of the largest colored schools in the country and President Thirkield is demanding Bradford's resignation on the ground that his activities were likely to lead the millions of negroes who looked to the school for example into disobedience of the law which was based upon medical science.

Governor and Police Board. Baltimore, Oct. 3.—There was an attempt made to call out the militia today in an effort to settle the squabble between Gov. Crothers, of Maryland, and the police commissioners of Baltimore city. This is based upon a statement made by the governor at noon today. "There will be no developments today," said the governor. President Whetzel, of the police board, is ill with appendicitis.

The warlike attitude existing between the chief executive of the state and the police board was brought about by the governor's charges of alleged incompetency on the part of the board in failing to oust police officials who were suspected of misconduct in office. The governor threatened to suspend the present board and appoint successors. This led to hostilities, the police board posting armed guards to keep out any invaders that the governor might attempt to send. Then followed the report that the state militia would be called on for duty, under orders from the governor, to take possession of the board room.

It is the general belief of the business community that this is no time for hysteria.

New York Politics.

New York, Oct. 3.—That the political situation in New York is to be complicated by William R. Hearst endorsing the republican ticket in order to aid Theodore Roosevelt, or else placing an independent ticket in the field to attract votes from the democratic candidates, was made certain today. In leading first page editorial the Hearst organs bitterly assailed the ticket nominated at Rochester, and it was as of "Murphy's making," and insisted that it was nominated as part of a plan of Tammany Hall to secure control of all of the cities of the state.

The general opinion of the politicians is that Hearst will endorse Stimson and the remainder of the republican ticket. That the democratic leaders realize that they will have to fight Hearst is shown by a call for a conference here next Wednesday night.

The republicans will open their campaign tomorrow. In the morning the state committee will meet and select Roosevelt's choice its new chairman. In the afternoon Stimson and the other candidates will be notified and accept at the republican club.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The issues of the New York state campaign were outlined by Col. Roosevelt to the republican gubernatorial candidate, Henry L. Stimson, at Sagamore Hill today. They are to include a continuous assault on "Murphy domination," as exemplified, according to the Roosevelt view in the outcome of the Rochester convention. Roosevelt told the candidate that he thought he should open his speechmaking tour of the state in an upstate city as early as possible. Later on Roosevelt and Stimson will tour together.

Double Guard Around Court Room. Augusta, Ga., Oct. 3.—A double guard was thrown about the court room today when the three alleged principals and twenty-seven others were arraigned for participating in a riot on the Haggenbach-Wallace circus train yesterday when three negroes and one white man were killed.

Three negroes, giving their names as Clark, Greeham and Wilson, are alleged to have planned a general hold-up of all their fellow employees on the circus train after it left Columbia, S. C., where all hands received their wages.

Circus followers and workmen lingered around the streets here all night and frequent threats were heard at the show grounds. There is a general feeling of great bitterness over the death of Paul A. Williams, a Southern Railway billing clerk, who was killed while attempting to check the riot. J. C. Weekly, of Columbia, who was with Williams, was badly wounded and is in a hospital here.

The Alleged Bribery. Chicago, 3.—The political conspiracy whirled which the "defense" will rely upon in the Lorimer senatorial bribery investigation, was again forecasted at today's session of the investigation, when counsel for Lorimer was cross-examining Jervis Newton, of the state bank of Chicago.

Newton testified that state senator Holst was deposited $2,500 in the bank on June 16, 1907. Holst has confessed that he received this sum for going for Lorimer and Newton's testimony was counted upon to show that Holst really had this sum at the time mentioned.

Counsel for Lorimer asked Newton whether Gov. Deneen, Lorimer's opponent on the senatorial race, was not one of the largest stockholders in the state bank. The natural inference he desired to bring out, it seemed to spectators, was that Deneen's influence with the bank might have resulted in Newton's testimony, substantiating Holst's law.

Newton stated that Deneen owned stock in the bank but he did not know how much.

Set Fire to His House. Richmond, Va., Oct. 3.—Enraged because his wife would not give him $1 to continue his spree, Herbert McIntire, a young white man, deliberately set fire to his house, No. 400 west Carey street, early this morning, and when his wife extinguished the flames, beat her into insensibility. The agonized screams of the woman awoke neighbor who telephoned for the police.

When they arrived at the house, McIntire, armed with a razor, resisted arrest, but was overpowered and handcuffed.

McIntire had his throat cut almost from ear to ear during a drunken row about two months ago.

THE SECOND DISTRICT.

The investigation by a subcommittee of the democratic State committee of the recent Second district congressional primary, in which Representative H. L. Maynard contested the award of a certificate of nomination to William A. Young, came to a close in Norfolk Saturday night, when counsel for Maynard, Young, and citizens, the latter protesting against the award of a certificate to either contestant or contestee, submitted final argument except on brief. The committee adjourned to formulate a report to the State committee at Richmond tomorrow.

Saturday's feature was the introduction of evidence by Young intended to wipe out charges of illegal voting in Norfolk county and of affirmation of illegal voting at Drewryville, in Southampton county which counsel for Maynard said would also be answered by affidavits.

In a recount of the courthouse precinct of Norfolk city 29 votes instead of 19 were found for Maynard and 589 instead of 599 for Young. This was regarded by the Young people as a "good discovery" for them, because 26 people had testified they voted for Maynard in this precinct when only 19 were returned.

Citizens' counsel, charging that the district was "honeycombed" with fraud, asked for a new primary.

In the event of a new primary being called, with either Young or Maynard as candidates, it is claimed by the republicans that the Second district will elect a republican to Congress.

Endeavoring to Identify Dynamiters.

Los Angeles, Oct. 3.—Many detectives are working feverishly to run down the persons responsible for the explosion that destroyed the Los Angeles Times building, causing many deaths.

Every clue is being run down, and some little or no chance of the assassins escaping.

Burns, Moran, Chief Galloway and city officials who have examined the demolished and burned structure are positive that it was nitro-glycerine and not gas that caused the wreck. Every sale of nitro-glycerine and dynamite on the coast during the past month is being traced, and this method is expected to produce promising results, the detectives say.

The third arrest since the explosion was that of Martin Eagan, an alleged anarchist.

Meanwhile the search for bodies continues. Five badly charred corpses have already been found and the management of the Times announces that it now appears certain that nineteen were killed. The corpses were found under heavy masses of steel (what were once linotype machines, and the supports of the building) mutilated beyond identification.

General Otis issued a long statement today, thanking his friends for their warm sympathy and reiterating his determination to rebuild the Times building better than ever, and to present the war "for industrial freedom" more relentlessly than ever. The work of rehabilitation will begin at once, he said.

Squads of detectives are constantly on guard at the home of General Otis, and his son-in-law, Harry Chandler, general manager.

The rewards for the apprehension of the guilty persons now total $18,500. Mayor Alexander announced that the city's reward has been increased to $10,000, and this with the $7,500 offered by the Central Labor Council and other smaller amounts make this total.

The police today announced that they had found four crates containing sticks of dynamite and a box of explosive caps last night near the plant of the Maier Brewing Company. The plant has been recently threatened several times with dynamiting.

Searching for Bodies.

New York, Oct. 3.—With the tide running like a "mill race," the divers and river men who are searching for the bodies of the 29 lost members of the battleship New Hampshire, were dubious today that any of the bodies had been recovered for several days. A high wind has prevailed ever since Saturday night when the disaster occurred, and this has added to the fear that many of the bodies have been carried out to sea.

One additional fatality took place just after midnight, when a man of warman from the battleship Kansas lost his life. He was known to his companions as "Frenchy" and died overboard to rescue a young woman who had fallen from the landing at 157th street. He was followed immediately by Ensign Blackburn. The latter grabbed the girl just as a life belt was thrown to him and they were pulled ashore. Another life belt was thrown to "Frenchy," but before he could reach it, he was swirled into the stream by the furious tide, and sank.

The first body to be recovered was taken from the water today. It was that of Joseph Budley, a coal passer, and was picked up by harbor police off Eighty-sixth street.

Los Angeles, Oct. 3.—Shovelers engaged in searching for human bodies in the ruins of the Los Angeles Times building today came upon a gruesome sight when they located the remains of seven at the foot of the elevator shaft of the building.

Harrowing scenes were presented in the crowd surrounding the building when the corpses were lifted out bit by bit and dumped into morgue baskets. Employees of the Times viewed the fragments of bodies and made an effort to identify them. They found it practically impossible, so badly charred were the bodies.

Carnegie an Admirer of Roosevelt.

London, Oct. 3.—"It is simply impossible for Roosevelt to stay out of politics, and I am glad of it. He shouldn't stay out, for I consider him one of the great forces for good in America."

This is the opinion of Andrew Carnegie, expressed in today's Evening Standard. The Laird of Skibo, who is now in England and receiving the freedom of nearly every city he visits, believes the republican party in America will yet get together, bury its indifference, and re-elect the present splendid president.

"My view of American politics," Carnegie said, "is that the people are making a fuss over the most minor questions, and that before election both parties will sink their differences and present solid fronts. The re-election of President Taft in 1912 is so much to be desired that the republicans should put every other issue aside."

Killed Jealous Husband.

Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 3.—C. Edward Gibson, aged 42, a wealthy oil operator who amassed a fortune in the Illinois oil fields, was shot and instantly killed here today, Menlo F. Moore, aged 33, proprietor of theatres in Washington, Bedford, Michell and Vincennes, Ind., is alleged to have done the shooting.

Gibson was shot five times in the back, Moore jumped on a train and went to Washington, presumably to join his wife, who is visiting her father, Arnold J. Padgett, but was arrested as he left the train.

The shooting is alleged to be a direct result of attentions paid Moore's wife by Gibson. The shooting took place on the Union Station platform. Moore had watched the oil producer purchase a ticket and followed him out of the station to the platform.

All the persons connected with the tragedy are wealthy and prominent. Moore has a son five years of age, and Gibson is survived by his widow and seven year old boy.

President Finley and 35 officials of the Southern Railway and associated lines, most important connections of the Pennsylvania, have completed an inspection of the new passenger station and tunnel system of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which will be the New York terminal of the six through passenger trains operated by the Southern.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Elizabeth, the nine-year-old daughter of Dr. C. S. Carter, was thrown from a horse in Warrenton yesterday and badly injured.

Mayor Riddick, of Norfolk, has sent a special message to the city council regarding the water situation which threatens to become serious.

The League of Virginia Municipalities will hold its fifth annual convention in Charlottesville next Thursday and Friday.

A. Spotswood Payne, aged about 65 years, died of heart trouble in Lynchburg Sunday. Mr. Payne was a member of the Virginia Military Academy Corps at the battle of Newmarket.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Nalls, granddaughter of Mrs. O. F. Bresse, and Mr. John Berkeley Lee was celebrated at "Rose Hill," near Rapidan, on Saturday last.

William Anderson Glasgow, aged 85 years, died at his home in Lexington Saturday night. He was born on a farm where Buena Vista now stands. From 1881 to 1885 he was a member of the Virginia state Senate.

Fire last night burned away practically all of the superstructure of the handsome bay steamer New York, of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railway. The vessel was lying alongside of a wharf of the Norfolk Marine Railway, where she had been a week for repairs.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss May McDonald, daughter of Mrs. McDonald, of Berryville, to Mr. Bayard Stevens, son of Col. Edward Stevens, of "Castle Point," Hoboken, N. J., which is to take place in Grace Episcopal church, Berryville, on Tuesday, October 11.

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

President Taft delivered what will probably be his only public address of the present campaign at the banquet of the National Republican League at the Hotel Astor in New York Saturday night.

The president's speech was marked by an unusually conciliatory tone toward the insurgent wing of the party. He gave "all factions of the party" due credit for their share in helping to put through Congress the legislative program, which the president took occasion to outline in some detail. The record of the past 18 months he declared was an earnest desire of the party to fulfill its platform promises and obligations, and he promised that if the republican majority in Congress should be continued at the coming elections he would see to it that the work would be carried through to completion.

Upon the whole republican party the president bestowed the title of "progressive." Then he undertook to define just what is meant by "progressive."

"A party of true progress is not a party of radicalism," he declared amid cheers.

"It is not a party of ultra-conservatism," he added, and again was cheered.

"A progressive republican," the president went on, "is one who recognizes existing and concrete evils and who is in favor of practical and definite steps to eradicate them."

Twice President Taft mentioned Mr. Roosevelt by name in connection with the campaign against corporate abuses, and the third time by inference, when he referred to the New York situation. The cause of republicanism in this state, he said, has been heartened by a brave declaration of principle and by the nomination of a candidate for governor of the highest character and ability. At the same time, Mr. Taft did not take an altogether sanguine view of the benefits that are to accrue from direct primary experiments, but he hoped that the idea could be turned to a useful and permanent betterment of politics.

"But however effective these suggested changes may prove at first," he added, "I venture to say that no great permanent good can come from them, unless they are accompanied by a change in the individual voter, and a awakening to the necessity of constant watchfulness and effort on his part to prevent the old evils from appearing in a new guise."

President Taft announced that he had directed the tariff commission to make no report of the work it has accomplished up to this time until after the election. He took this step, he declared, in order to lift the commission out of politics entirely. He referred to his suggested future revision of the tariff schedule by schedule, and declared that the Payne tariff law is coming generally to be recognized as a most creditable bill.

The president declared for a sweeping extension of the civil service, taking a stand in favor of putting all post-office collectors of customs and internal revenues, surveyors of customs and appraisers on the permanent rolls of the government, thus leaving but little of the patronage of old.

Disorder in Spain.

Madrid, Oct. 3.—The rumor spread through Madrid today that a revolution had been planned for the evening of October 3, following the meeting of the Cortes, now scheduled to assemble on Thursday.

Despite the statements that Sunday's demonstrations of clericals and anti-clericals passed off quietly, it is known today that several hundred persons were injured in fierce encounters in Madrid, Seville, Santander Saragossa and Valencia.

The demonstrations, however, were much more quiet than expected, owing to the clericals' belief that King Alfonso is on the eve of surrendering to them. Premier Canalejas declares this assumption wholly unwarranted.

Death of Former Senator Blodgett.

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 3.—Rufus Blodgett, former United States Senator from New Jersey, Superintendent of the New York and Long Branch Railroad and a prominent democratic politician for thirty years, died at his home here today after a long illness. Blodgett served in the United States Senate from 1887 to 1893. He was a millionaire.

To the list of deaths growing out of the fifth Vanderbilt cup automobile race on Saturday night is likely to be added three more names bringing the number of fatalities up to seven.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the vanished Arctic explorer, has, it is said, been located in London. He still claims that he discovered the pole.

The town of Walboro, N. H., was badly damaged by a severe storm on Saturday. No one was injured however.

Deficiencies found in the moral character of Columbus, according to a dispatch from Paris, make it unlikely that the explorer will be canonized.

Entailing a loss of more than $100,000, fire destroyed 20 buildings in the village of Camden, Onondaga county, N. Y., early yesterday. The fire, it is believed, was of incendiary origin.

Senator Tillman, according to a dispatch from Trenton, S. C., says: "If my health continues to improve, I expect to be a candidate for the United States Senate in 1912, otherwise not. All will depend on how I stand the work in Washington when I go there in December."

The coal mine disaster near Esperanza, Mex., Saturday, was worse than the early reports indicated. Reports received at Eagle Pass say that more than 200 men were in the chamber where the explosion occurred and that they are all believed to be dead.

Senator La Follette went to St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn., this afternoon to prepare for the operation by the Drs. Mayo tomorrow for an affection of the gall bladder and possible complications of the appendix.

In raids on two alleged gambling resorts in Washington early yesterday morning, police of the First and Eighth precincts took more than fifty men in custody. Two of those arrested were required to deposit collateral, while the others have been summoned to appear as witnesses in the Police Court today.

At least 19 sailors from the battleship New Hampshire, at anchor off 15th street and the Hudson river, New York, were drowned at 7 o'clock Saturday night, when a tender was upset in the choppy sea that was running, the men being swept overboard. The tender was crowded with men.

Young Mrs. James Mann, of Paradise township, Pa., on Saturday took carbolic acid, gave the same poison to her three little children, walked to the field, where her husband was at work, calmly bade him good-bye, told him what she had done and started to walk back to the house where she shot and killed herself. The prompt arrival of physicians saved the lives of the children. The wife and mother had been acting strangely for some time.

Governor Charles N. Haskell has informed George R. Belding of Little Rock, Ark., secretary of the Arkansas Fair Association, that he declined an invitation to be present at the reception of Theodore Roosevelt at Little Rock October 10. The governor declared that until he changed his mind toward the "official misconduct of Roosevelt in the past or his attempt to deceive the people in the present," he couldn't consistently place himself in the position of approving the Roosevelt policies.

Dr. Hubert B. Gudgeon, of Asheville, N. C., a young graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, killed himself yesterday afternoon in a room of the Grand Union Hotel, New York, while his mother fought with him for the razor with which he was cutting his throat. Dr. Gudgeon was 24 years old. His father is J. M. Gudgeon, an attorney of Asheville, and formerly was a member of Congress. Gudgeon's hand study broke his health, and his suicide was superinduced by melancholy.

Charged with stealing a diamond ring from the body of a woman as it lay in a coffin, Ernest Elisinger of Utica, N. Y., is confined in the jail at Schenectady, awaiting an examination on this afternoon on the charge of grand larceny. The young man was employed by a Utica firm of undertakers, and confessed to taking the ring, valued at $75 when left alone in the room with the body of Mrs. Oscar Lindner. The ring was recovered, but not in time to be buried with the dead woman, as was the desire of the bereaved family.

Governor Crothers will suspend the members of the board of police commissioners of Baltimore today and will appoint temporary commissioners in their stead. The present commissioners have defied any action of the governor in regard to the appointment of the new board. The governor declares that the action of the police board in placing an armed guard around the police headquarters in an effort to resist the seating of a temporary board constitutes a resistance of the lawful authority of the state and that he will take all necessary steps to put it down. As governor he declared it his duty to put down this insurrection with all the force at his command, including the militia.

The first report in the cholera situation was made in Naples today in the announcement that in the last twenty-four hours there had been only eight new cases and five deaths in Italy and only one death in the affected districts elsewhere in Italy. The authorities say the disease is now under control.

Doctor Dragged from a Cupboard.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—The tables were turned on Dr. Walter J. Axford, a widely known West Philadelphia physician, when he was dragged from a cupboard where he had been hid away in a furnished room house and arrested early today on a warrant sworn out by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Householder, charging him with infidelity to his wife. His companion, Miss Belle Stewart, a former telephone operator, was also taken into custody. When arraigned Dr. Axford was held in $500 bail while that of the woman was fixed at $400.

Three months ago Dr. Axford had his wife arrested at Atlantic City charging her with infidelity. She was arrested in company with Thomas A. Conway, manager of the Atlantic City Hippodrome and proprietor of the New Jersey Fire Works Company. The family subsequently declared that the arrest of Mrs. Axford was a "frame-up" on the part of the husband who wished to be rid of her in the divorce courts.

Threatened Lynchings.

Louisville, Miss., Oct. 3.—With the opening of the trial of Swinton Permenter, accused slayer of Janie Sharpe, it became known that fifty young men of this county have sworn to and signed an agreement to lynch Permenter in event the jury should liberate him. As a result of this information, the governor ordered out state militia to prevent an outbreak. Janie Sharpe was found dead, her body badly mutilated, in a thicket, near her home at Rural Hill last July. On circumstantial evidence Permenter, a jilted suitor of the girl, was indicted for the crime.

NO LOVE MATCH.

Lina Cavallieri, in a letter Le Journal of Paris published Saturday, declares once and for all that her marriage with Robert Chandler was no love match. The matronage is mildly indignant because Le Journal announced that she had received a large fortune from Chandler which, says Cavallieri, is a gross exaggeration. She explains in brief, that all she has is Chandler's promise to pay $20,000 yearly.

"Let it be understood once for all," she writes, "I did not make a marriage of love. Mr. Chandler was able to make me decide to marry him only by a courtship, the intensity of which broke all bonds, aided, let it be understood, by guarantees regarding the future. Whatever one may decide about this temptuous love-making, at least don't exaggerate the guarantees."

New York Stock Market.

New York, Oct. 3.—A moderate degree of irregularity was again displayed in the stock market at the opening and in the early trading, gains and losses being about evenly divided. Government securities unchanged; other bonds firm.

Increased activity and strength prevailed all through the last half of the forenoon and further advances were made over prices ruling at the end of the first hour.
